Between 45,000 and 60,000 new cases of blindness from HSV are reported each year in the United States. Additionally, approximately 20,000 cases of retinal detachment (RD) occur each year in the United States as a result of HSV infection. Current treatments for HSV include antiviral agents such as acyclovir, ganciclovir, and foscarnet. However, none of these antiviral agents are fully effective against HSV and they also have significant toxic side effects, including nephrotoxicity, which is manifested as blood in the urine and/or kidney damage. Therefore, a need remains for effective pharmaceutical agents for the treatment of herpesvirus infections, such as HSV.My work on the Fidelity team is all about helping developers take advantage of low-latency/high-frequency trading. I help developers that want to develop their applications for high-frequency markets by showing them how to write code that uses system interfaces to trade high-frequency financial instruments. My current work is on the FXCM Marketplace. FXCM is a liquidity provider for various financial products and the FXCM Marketplace is a high-frequency trading platform that allows customers to interact with and trade these products. Some of the recent interesting posts on the FXCM Marketplace Blog: If you want to work in FXCM's Developer Programs on their Marketplace, reach out to me at @potato_on_fire and I can guide you on how to get started. We offer training, compensation and a lot of other incentives to encourage people to join this exciting new field of financial software development. Stay tuned for more blog posts, articles, and resources, the FXCM Marketplace is very active and we are always looking for new ways to help our customers build their applications.[Blood volume: measurement, measurement of cardiovascular function and measuring of the erythrocyte water content].
