I have a drop down menu called country_list as a string array and need to loop through the countries to display. My current code is as follows: "> However, I'm not getting any results returned. A: if you simply want to populate the select dropdown with countries, you can do it like this (note the use of implicit loop in the array_walk function): '$country.'; }); ?> This is assuming that you have the countries in a file called countries.php (whomever is responsible for the name of that file - make sure it is not called countries.txt) and you are calling it with the following line: $country_list = file_get_contents('countries.
