Activation key 1001bit pro A: The activation key is your computer password. When you installed SketchUp or downloaded SketchUp Pro, you should have set up a password. If you forgot your password, you can either reset your password with your Google Account, or get someone else to reset it for you. If you have forgotten your password (or don't know your password), you can use the password generator on the Google Support page to create a random password. This will not be your original password. After the password is created, go to Click the link in the upper right corner of the login screen. Click the Forgot your password? link at the top of the login screen. Enter the password you created using the password generator and click the link in the upper right corner to generate a new password. Re-enter the password you created using the password generator and click the Go button. The site should be now ready to use.
